20/20 reports on harrowing ordeals and astonishing escapes that ordinary people experience and manage to survive.

Friday, July 31, 2009

MONEY DETOX

Out of control spenders turn to the only week-long live-in center located in Tennessee where they join other over-spenders from all over the country, each at their wits' end financially. They participate in a week of therapeutic exercises, role playing, meditation and group therapy hoping to get to the root of the problem and then change their behavior.

Friday, August 7, 2009

MEDICAL MYSTERIES

Whether examining how a baby born with his heart outside of his body can possibly survive or why millions of women only feel pain during sex, "Medical Mysteries" reports on some of the strangest conditions known to medicine.

BLOWN AWAY: TWISTER TERROR

In less than five minutes, an entire community was torn apart as a massive tornado of historic proportions changed the lives of everyone in its path. Sam Champion chronicles the frightening force of nature and the enduring power of the human spirit.

IN HARM'S WAY

It was an accident that sparked a firestorm: a New York mother reportedly driving drunk and stoned, killing herself and seven others - including four children in her van - after driving the wrong way down the highway. What put this mother on the path to disaster? Why would parents drink and drive with their children in the car? Juju Chang reports that it's more common than many might think.

Friday, August 28, 2009

NEW REVELATIONS

The gruesome murder of Jasmine Fiore led to a widely televised manhunt for reality star suspect Ryan Jenkins and ended with Jenkins' suicide. But the story of the murdered bikini model, found stuffed in a suitcase, is still far from over. Deborah Roberts reports on the astonishing revelations just now coming to light.

Friday, September 4, 2009

AMISH TEENAGERS

"20/20" takes an unprecedented look at Amish teenagers at a crossroads, as they come of age and decide their future. ABC News' Jay Schadler first introduced viewers to the teens in a report that aired last year. What life decisions have they made in the time since? Schadler reports.

Friday, September 25, 2009

OUTCAST

Christine Paolilla, transformed from an ugly duckling into "Miss Irresistible," turns on the very girls who made her popular? Four girls were gunned down at a home in Houston, TX suburb. Police were baffled by the murders. Was Christine Paolilla responsible for the murders? ABC News Correspondent Mary Fulginiti reports.

PRIMETIME

PRIMETIME: FAMILY SECRETS

This series goes behind closed doors and reveals firsthand the secrets most families never talk about.

Tuesday, July 7, 2009

Primetime will report on Michael Jackson's children, the custody battle with Debbie Rowe and feature a rarely seen interview with Rowe from 2003. Diane Sawyer and Elizabeth Vargas will co-anchor the program with Jim Avila reporting from Los Angeles.

Tuesday, July 14, 2009

In an exclusive television interview with ABC News' Chris Connelly, Joe Jackson says he suspects foul play may have been involved in the death of his son, Michael Jackson. The report will examine Joe Jackson's accusations, from his claims that some of the people surrounding Michael were ripping him off to whether any one individual could be at fault for the death of the King of Pop.

Tuesday, July 21, 2009

Two moms living together raising their two sons, may not be traditional, but it is no longer unheard of. However, Rene and Chloe Prince are not a typical lesbian couple. Chloe is a male to female transsexual, who underwent gender reassignment surgery. "Primetime" cameras were allowed to follow Chloe as she took the plunge into womanhood.

Tuesday, August 4, 2009

Doctors say about one million children in the U.S. suffer from OCD. While many people often joke they have some form of the disorder, "Primetime: Family Secrets" takes a rare look inside the lives of the children who are truly suffering from OCD and reveals something far more crushing than most of us could ever imagine. David Muir reports.

PRIMETIME: THE OUTSIDERS

The limited series takes viewers into the lives of people who live in worlds unfamiliar to the rest of society.

LIVING WITH WILD LIONS

Lions may be the kings and queens of the African bush, but their kingdom is fast disappearing. Two extraordinary men are breaking all the rules to try to save the lions. Kevin Richardson is an affable South African known as the 'Lion Whisperer,' and hundreds of miles away in Namibia, Animal Planet host a Dave Salmoni is risking his life trying to rehabilitate a pride of wild lions. Jay Schadler travels to Africa to report on the unforgettable journey of two men living with lions.

ABDUCTED BY ALIENS?

TRANSFORMATION

Part of the Wild Horse Inmate Program (WHIP), mustangs end up at a Colorado prison, where inmates become horse whisperers, learning to care for, gently break and train these frightened 800-pound animals to accept a saddle and rider. As Jay Schadler reports, the unique program does more than train mustangs for a new future among humans. The mustangs transform many of the inmates too.

Tuesday, September 1, 2009

LIVING WITH BEARS

What would compel a retired school teacher from Anchorage, Alaska to live in the wilderness, opening his cabin's surroundings up to wild black bears and grizzlies, the largest land predator in North America? Jay Schadler goes into the deep woods of Alaska to find out, and asks: which is more dangerous, a 700 pound grizzly or a 71-year-old retired school teacher named Charlie?

Tuesday, September 8, 2009

JON GOSSELIN

In his first television interview since divorce papers were filed, Jon Gosselin speaks candidly with Chris Cuomo about being vilified in the tabloids and discusses his true feelings for his soon-to-be ex-wife, Kate Gosselin.

Wednesday, September 16, 2009

THE CYCLE OF ABUSE

Are we all programmed from childhood to make the same mistakes our parents made in raising us? The odds are hard to overcome -- one in three people abused as children will also use physical force on their own children, according to several child behavior experts. Primetime reports on breaking the cycle of abuse.

PRIMETIME: CRIME

This series goes deep inside real cases and also retraces the twists and turns of some cold cases, providing new clues and forensic evidence.

Wednesday, July 1, 2009

Tim MacNeil was a successful defense attorney. Two years ago he was gunned down by a masked intruder in his San Diego home -- the only eyewitness his two stepchildren, Brae and Nathan. Both are now charged with the murder, but who really did it? With one trial, the unique situation of two separate juries and both siblings pointing the finger at each other, could they both get off? Mary Fulginiti unravels the case.

Wednesday, July 8, 2009

Melanie Goodwin was a college sophomore making one last stop at a convenience store before heading back to campus. But her simple stop to pick up a snack turned horrific and resulted in her tragic death when she encountered a stranger who quietly followed her out the door. Jim Avila unravels the case.

Wednesday, July 15, 2009

Those who date online might expect a certain amount of innocent fudging in others' profiles. There's always the risk of encountering a liar whose online self-description is far from the real person. David Muir investigates the man who called himself "Dr. Jeff" and how he was able to lure so many women. Muir sits down for an exclusive interview with Marsalis himself, who breaks his silence on.

Wednesday, July 29, 2009

What & Who Killed Michaels Jackson? Tonight's report includes the latest details in the investigation surrounding Michael Jackson's death, and how his passing is shining a light on celebrities' use of drugs and the doctors who enable them.

Wednesday, August 12, 2009

Jon Quinones reports on teen, Alissa Turney, who vanished without a trace after coming home from school. The case went relatively cold...was she a runaway or a victim of foul play? The report includes never-before-seen home video and documents.

Wednesday, August 19, 2009

Was a high school sophomore brainwashed into viciously killing his former best friend, or was he the mastermind? How did an apparently normal, innocent looking teenager in Colorado Springs, Colorado get involved in something so horrible? Grimes speaks out for the first time to Jim Avila, saying he did it because of a twisted version of the children's game Simon Says.

Wednesday, September 2, 2009

Jaycee Dugard is back with her family 18 years after allegedly being kidnapped at the age of 11. Now Dugard and her two daughters face a long road ahead as they try to adapt to a normal life. Elizabeth Vargas talks to Jessyca Mullenberg, another kidnap victim who beat the odds and survived similar abuse. Vargas reports on how long-time captives struggle once they are freed -- and how they can even be blamed for not trying to escape.

Wednesday, September 9, 2009

The state of Missouri has cast aside the familiar model of juvenile jails in favor of a radically different approach - therapy and rehabilitation. Is the Missouri's approach working? Chris Cuomo reports.
